

“This is THE BARN, the hearth of the farm pounds here”

*In its tenth year, as the season turns once more, a new excitement fills the farm's old barn.
In the garden, trees offer their last fruits with a ripened humility, and fresh root vegetables reach deep into the soil.*

In the jars: tomato sauces just lifted from the wood fire, Grandma's quince jam set with its own seeds, the tiny bubbles of fermentation, and the essences of herbs dripping from the stills...

The fireplaces are lit again, and the winds carry the taste of the Istrancas to the farm...

As we dreamed up our autumn menu, we wanted above all to be worthy of the producers of this land, its seas, its pastures and, of course, the wines of Thrace.
